Key facts

- Toronto is Canada's largest city, by Lake Ontario.
- Montreal, in Quebec, is a major French-speaking city.
- Vancouver, on the west coast, sits between mountains and the sea.
- Most Canadians live in cities near the southern border.

Key vocabulary

- City — a large town.
- Urban — to do with cities.
- Population — the number of people living somewhere.
- Bilingual — using two languages (as in Montreal).

Living in the south

Because the north is so cold, most Canadians live in a band of cities near the US border, where the climate is milder.

Diverse cities

Toronto and Vancouver are among the most multicultural cities in the world, home to people from across the globe.
